All being tiveted waterwere bales of rubbish "faced" with that tight, it will be rolled into the sea and across the sandy bed of the water till it floats. It will then be turned over and the man-holes at the top opened and about thirty tons of ballast to keep the ends vertical, so as to act like stem and stern, will be placed therein. It will then have two bilge keels, a rudder, light spar deck, mast and lug sails attached, and he provided with an anchor and good chain cables, and, if necessary, a pump in case of leakage. The cylinder ship will then be fit to go to any port of the world with its freight, and in any

"The cost of this operation will amount to about $15,000. The obelisk in its case will be towed over during the summer months and laid aside the Thames Embankment on a platform properly prepared for the purpose, and lifted high enough to clear the parapet, and the bilge keels and other additions being stripped off, the cylinder will be rolled to the proposed site and then stripped off the obelisk, which will lie ready to be elevated to its pedestal, an operation which will be simply effected by means of a few balks of timber and two small hydraulic rams. The whole cost is not to exceed $50,000, and that of the obelisk at Paris is said to have been $400,000."

--- Another crime attributable to losses at the gaming table is reported from Monaco M. Guerin, a married man, forty years of age, and father of a family, arrived from Marseilles at the celebrated headquarters of gambling; he at once began to play, and soon lost $.000. Leaving the table, he proceeded to the Hotel Beaurivage, where he was staying, and immediately afterward fired a pistol shot at his heart. The attempt failed to kill bim, but he inflicted such a wound as caused him to faint and lie insensible for some hours. On recovering the use of his faculties he carefully loaded the pisto!, placed it in his mouth, and fired once more. The ball came out by one of his eyes, and this time his agony was such that his moans awoke his neighbors in the house, who took steps to convey the licited. unfortunate man to a hospital. There he made a declaration before the representatives of the authorities. "I had a debt of 20,000 france to meet," he said, "and I came here to win it at the roulette table. I was thoroughly resolved that, if I failed At the time, he attempted suicide, This was the first time he had ever played.
